

Candidate Statement for Parth Bharwad

Occupation: Student

Age: 20

Hello! My name is Parth Bharwad. Being only 20 years old, many people have asked me why I want to run for city council at such a young age. I believe that you are never too young to make a difference in your community. I am running for city council because I believe I can be a proper representative for the residents of Cupertino on the council. Being a part of the millennial generation, I am significantly younger than many of the decision makers in the city and have a different perspective on various issues. The city is in need of a millennial perspective, an educated young voice, to bring that new perspective to the council. I firmly believe in Youth Empowerment, Sustainable Development, and Public Safety and will work hard, if elected, to make progress in each of these areas. Its time to take a stance against status quo local government and elect a millennial to the Cupertino city council. Cupertino will be my home for decades to come, which is why I want to ensure the prosperity of the community for the future.
