Question 15

When I visited Columbus, Ohio, I really liked their C-Bus service. It is free and goes around the downtown at a good frequency. I did not have to rent a car to go between my hotel and the convention center for 4 days. We should think of something like that covering all major arteries of Cupertino, major destinations such as De Anza College, High Schools, CalTrain and Light Rail stations. People will only use it if the frequency is high such as every 5 or 10 minutes and faster service.

Shuttle needs to be with a frequency of less than 15 minutes to be viable and should not take more than 10% of the time it otherwise would take by a direct car / ride share service.

If not people would find other alternatives and shuttles would remain underutilized and expensive to operate.

Another idea to explore is to tie up with door to door ride share services - rather than own and operate a shuttle service.

Question 15

Shuttles will NOT solve most people's transportation needs. The ultimate solution is the autonomous taxi which will take you from where you are to where you want to go, and it will be cheaper than owning a car. This is the future. Buses, light rail, and shuttles are old technology solutions that require heavy subsidies, serve few people, and will soon be obsolete.

Question 15

If there is to be a shuttle, I'd suggest running it only at peak times, but having multiple simultaneous routes during those peak times. I'd put stops by the HMart VTA bus stop to serve the south (including Seven Springs), at the Library to serve the center, by the Post Office to serve the west, and by Vallco to serve the east. Rides to/from Caltrain would get used by those who work or live in Cupertino, and those stops would allow riders to take advantage wherever in Cupertino they work.

Question 15

This must be better than VTA or no one will use it. While I indicated more stops are more important, that is not to say "slower wait times" are more important. More stops, speed and frequentness are all important. If I can't get to where I need to go, when I need to and without having to wait a long time, I won't use the shuttle. VTA has this problem---lack of stops, lack of speed and the bus doesn't come frequently enough. The cost of the ride is also important. Is this a "Free" shuttle or will there be a charge. If there is a charge, will there be a discount for disabled or senior riders? What about for children?

Question 15

Feedback on one of the survey Q - less wait time or more wait time/ more connections or less connections/ and fast or slow shuttle speed - these don't match similar needs. Each factor holds significance in itself! Please correct if possible and make it a three part question. Thank you!

Let us begin connecting our city more using best/tried successful strategies by other countries. Create smaller shuttle connecting residential areas to the main roads to access bigger shuttle. This is the best possible way to encourage citizens and convince them to benefit this great earth friendly service! Focus on connection and access CONVENIENT. Over time, you will see more people using shuttle and the city greatly benefiting. Don't get discouraged with initial resistance or inertia by the citizens. Thank you for this initiative! :)

Vallco would make a lot of sense for a centrally located transit center... airport shuttles would be great there as well... VTA with special shuttles around Cupertino, to other transit centers, and private shuttles to major employers. Along with a rooftop park, entertainment, a state of the art cinema, a Silicon Valley/ Steve Jobs museum, interactive art exhibits, retail, residential (including low income - more likely to use public transit!), a 400-800 Performing Arts Center, City Hall?? and some office space... a TRUE Cupertino City Center and transit hub!

- Walking

Question 15

frequency must be at least every 15 minutes to be useful without living life by the bus schedule. if not possible, at least offer strict timed connections between routes and with vta or caltrain shuttle stops and transit centers should have bike parking. not everyone can live in walking distance, but many can and do bike. tie in to city's bike boulevard plans. bike racks on bus are nice, but only work if not many people use them.

cupertino needs a fast and high frequency connection to caltrain. mountain view is only a few minutes away but no buses use highway 85 to get there. work with vta to extend bus 23 or 323 to mountain view caltrain via the freeway. old maps and schedules show that line 23 used to extend to palo alto!! also look into expanding frequency on line 26 between cupertino and sunnyvale caltrain.

consider bus only lanes to increase speed and capacity on stevens creek blvd. local shuttles could also use the bus lanes along with vta consider expanding operating hours to at least midnight. people do patronize businesses late night and even businesses that close early require employees to stay later to close up shop.

Question 15

Once seniors stop driving, they can become isolated in their homes, which can lead to a decline in health and mental functioning. To utilize para-transit services, one must medically qualify. Other services have limited hours, difficult application processes, and/or limited destinations (i.e. medical appointments only). Many seniors get stuck in situations where they or their family don't feel comfortable with them driving, but they don't medically qualify for para-transit so it becomes difficult for them to get around. This service could be a lifeline to keeping seniors active and healthy in our community. Free or discounted rides for people 50+ would ensure low income residents are also given the opportunity to avoid social isolation.

Question 14

- Walking

Question 15

I think the Community Shuttle should consider providing service to areas outside the Cupertino borders. Many people who work in Cupertino do not live here. I understand that the time it takes to get to San Jose can be over an hour. You will likely receive comments from people who are trying to get to downtown San Jose, or San Jose State College.

The Yosemite National Park Valley shuttle is a loop that serves its destinations every 15/20/30 minutes regularly depending upon the stop. Consider a loop that goes to the most popular places and alternating the destinations. You may need two separate loops to handle all the destinations people need.

Question 15

You have a great opportunity to alleviate traffic around De Anza. I would like to take classes at DeAnza but I don't want to deal with parking. Also, for me and especially for young adults, service to the Cal Train station would be great. I have two college age kids who like to go to SF. They have already learned that drinking and driving don't mix so it would be great to provide at least one shuttle run from CalTrain for weekend and late nights/last train.

Question 15

Not needing to drive car locally have many benefits - less pollution, less need for parking, avoid long-term parking at airport and caltrain which saves time, costs and fewer cars on the road.
San Antonio ranch during Saturdays and Sundays - where parking is extremely limited during those days. More residents can enjoy and participate this very popular hiking activity on weekends. I would even recommend high frequency shuttle service on the mornings of weekends from along stevenscreek blvd and other major streets to this park.
If available, I will also visit local shopping centers and businesses using city bus service.

Question 13

- Yes

Question 14

- Walking

Question 15

A shuttle would only be worth taking if it provides safe, reliable, and frequent/timely service to frequently needed stores and other services AND if users could walk conveniently to pickup-drop off places. Having to drive and park to reach a shuttle stop is a non-starter--It would be just as easy to drive to the desired destination if this was required.

I would use the shuttle if it connected with other ride options. VTA does not even connect with it's self. There are 20 to 30 minute connection times.

I would suggest seniors could ride free to get them out of their cars as many have more free time.

Look at what many European cities do to make their transit and last mile solutions work as VTA is a failure and drain on tax payers money.

Question 8

Convenience. I imagine the shuttles will run majorly along Stevens Creek and South DeAnza, and I live in the east side of the city, so IF I use the shuttle, it will be to the west side, like Whole Food/Target etc. It takes me about 10 min. to walk from my home to the two corridors, and it takes about the same time for me to hop in my car and reach the destination in the same amount of time, so in terms of convenience, my car wins.

Question 15

If a shuttle service is to succeed, it must offer a better value than its reasonable alternatives. Faster, safer, cheaper, more convenient. If the shuttle will not address these fundamental requirements, give it up. The City will launch a shuttle system directly to failure. Start with getting middle and high school students to school and to the library after school safely. Then, build from there.

Caltrain can greatly reduce my commute time if local shuttle to caltrain station is available with less stops. It would be nice to have degnated shuttles running between Caltrain and Cupertino. I believe coummuters would definitely ride the train rather than drive to SSF or city to work.

Question 15

I don't believe there are sufficient in-town destinations for a local shuttle to make sense here. There is probably value in going to Library or Target, but with so few other destinations hard to imagine anybody using this to get around town, or that it will be sufficiently frequent to be useful to anybody.

Perhaps consider a route that picks people up at neighborhood parks and/or schools. At least that would start to get some coverage of start/end points that are walkable.

Express shuttles to Caltrain or places like Valley Fair might be useful, but would depend on how long the local loop would take before you switch to the express shuttle out of town. Again, hard to imagine enough riders to make this worth it.

Both east-west, as well as north-south routes are needed! Maybe some stops need to be in neighboring parts of other cities; certainly Caltrain in Sunnyvale, but maybe others since Cupertino shopping is paltry except for groceries. Consider stops in interesting downtowns, since Cupertino doesn't really have a downtown. Mountain View, Sunnyvale, Los Altos all come to mind.

Question 15

I would definitely use the shuttle. Reasonable shuttle times are crucial. Riders need to know the scheduled times.

Please realistically research the peak times/down times to plan the schedule. It is hoped that the Forum will be on the schedule....perhaps one time in the morning...such as 9:30 -10:00 a.m. pick up time at the Forum....drop off at the Forum 2:00, 1:00 or other. Enlist information from the Forum. There are many seniors who need local transportation and they do not drive.

Please take note of the major intersection at Stevens Creek/Stelling.

Question 15

Just came back from Asia and folks are using public transit all the time. They have apps to show bus frequency, travel times and schedule. The travel time, and predictability of the schedule and on-time are very important - frequent stops will prolong the travel time. If long travel time, sudden/frequent cancellation of service, I don't think residents will consider to take it.

Question 15

Seems like VTA offers good CalTrain access (for example, lines 54, 55, 81). Why overlap? Get people to a VTA line to CalTrain. It would be great to lower school traffic congestion and provide city transport to get people to/from city services and events, but I don't think the city should contribute to financial loss to our struggling transit system. The city should facilitate public transportation use by the community - educating residents, communicating with VTA about city transportation needs, and filling the gaps when feasible.

Businesses and Residents are already paying excessively high Property Taxes ... SO HIGH that the costs are chasing families and businesses out of the area!! EACH NEW INCREMENTAL FEE & TAX adds to the excessive cost-of-living while providing little if any real benefit. 'VTA' IS the Transportation Authority for Santa Clara County ... this new "shuttle" will put in place another government "Transportation" agency/department function that will soak up funds that would be better spent on existing City Infrastructure. Don't create more government functions, jobs, roles, while draining the financial life-blood out of Cupertino Businesses and Residents

Question 14

- Walking

Question 15

Low cost, multiple routes, keep to the advertised schedule (Or have a way to know when you're at the stop when to expect the shuttle - app, website, signs that update), if you have multiple routes or routes are going to transit hubs, make sure they intersect at pretty close times, so people aren't spending a lot of time waiting for the connection. Make sure you're moving people from where they are (homes, apartments, etc) to where they want to go (Transit stations, grocery stores/farmers market, library, dinner out, Memorial Park, etc.) if you have to drive somewhere to get to the shuttle, and then have to take the shuttle back to your car, it seems like a waste and I would probably just end up driving direct to my destination. Bike racks on the shuttle would be good for people (possibly me, depending on how far away a shuttle stop is from where I live) who have to bike to the shuttle stop and need a bike on the other end of their trip. Maybe do some special extra services like "Take the shuttle to Shakespeare in the Park" if events like that aren't going to match up with the regular schedule.

Question 8

COST (Fee or TAX) on Cupertino Property Owners (Residents & Businesses)

Question 9

- None (0 Places), #1: because the Valley Transportation Agency already collects funds and plans as a region wide transportation agency.
- None (0 Places), #2: because 'VTA' and Santa Clara County also provide special transport vans and vehicles for special classes of residents (disabled, etc.) and again this "City" program would be costly and duplicative.

Question 10

- More stops: slower travel time with longer wait times

Question 11

- No

Question 12

Question 13

- No

Question 14

- Walking

Question 15

This "questionnaire" is designed with a bias to provide statistics that are ONLY supportive of the goals of the agency to force the residents and businesses to PAY more in Taxes and Fees to support a totally unnecessary "City Managed" transport service. This is duplicative, wasteful, and it is NOT THE ROLE of Cupertino City Hall, rather this function is already circumscribed by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) creation of the long-established Santa Clara County - Valley Transportation Authority ("VTA"). This "Survey" is HEAVILY BIASED to give a statistically positive result.
