POVERTY SIMULATION

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2
10:00 A.M. - NOON

CUPERTINO COMMUNITY HALL
10350 TORRE AVENUE

Silicon Valley is one of the most affluent areas in the United States, yet poverty runs deeper than one may think. According to recent reports, more than 30% of Santa Clara County residents cannot afford basic necessities each month without financial assistance.

The Poverty Simulation immerses participants in the reality of a Silicon Valley that grows in disparity as much as prosperity. During the simulation, participants work to overcome barriers to social services, live off insufficient income, and encounter unforeseen economic obstacles along the way.
