

2010 Cupertino Community Congress

Growing Green Showcase: Environmental Actions for Home and Business Sustainability

Featured Speakers:

Sustainability: The New Frontier.

- * Rose Grymes, Ph.D., lead of Planetary Sustainability from NASA and Richard Lowenthal, CEO of Coulomb Technologies will talk about research and technology innovations designed for a sustainable future, and provide perspectives and strategies on how each of us can work to achieve local sustainability.

Sat. July 31st

Workshop Topics:

10am to 2pm

Living Green: What Does It Mean?

- * Do-It-Yourself home energy and water conservation audit and retrofit basics for your home and office.

Build & Retrofit Green Homes in Any Color!

- * Overview of sustainable building concepts and best practices.

Green Dream Jobs: Retooling to enter the Green Economy.

- * Growing your skills and knowledge base to effectively emerge in the new green tech sector.

Composting: From Curbside to Yard-Wide.

- * Intro to Cupertino's new recycling and organics collection services coming to the City on November 1st.

How Green Does Your Garden Grow?

- * California native and drought tolerant species overview.

Greening Your Business is a Team Sport.

- * Learn how the Bay Area Green Business Program can certify your company or organization for conserving resources and preventing pollution in our community.

Solar for your Home and Business.

- * How to affordably choose, install, and maintain a photovoltaic system.

21st Century Dinner Table.

- * Take a culinary adventure and explore locally sourced food to reduce your meal's travels from farm to table.

Hosted at the Kirsch Center at De Anza College

Attendees will be provided lunch and a free Chico Bag.

Please R.S.V.P. to [www.cupertino.org/
communitycongress](http://www.cupertino.org/communitycongress)
or call 777-CITY(2489)

CUPERTINO GREEN

2010 Cupertino Community Congress

The Kirsch Center for Environmental Studies De Anza College Campus and Parking Map

Additional Event Transportation Information:

- * We encourage carpooling, or alternative transportation.
- * Bus lines 25, 53, 54, 55 access De Anza College on Saturdays.
- * Bike racks are available at the Kirsch Center.
- * Parking is free on Saturday for all our event guests. Space will be available in lots C & E.

The Kirsch Center for Environmental Studies is the preeminent demonstration building for energy innovation and sustainability in the California Community College system.

For more information on Green Cupertino, visit

www.cupertino.org/green