Want to Have a Block Party?

Learn How: June 26

With the long summer days ahead and more time to spend outdoors, now's the best time to plan a get-together with neighbors. Through Cupertino's Block Party program, neighbors can become acquainted and play safely in the street.

On Thursday, June 26 from noon to 1 pm at City Hall, 10300 Torre Ave., learn the basic steps to planning your first neighborhood party, and find out what's worked at past events. We'll also review guidelines, such as event time (9 am to dusk); online application (due 30 days prior to party), petition, and city-provided insurance. Because Cupertino encourages healthy and connected neighborhoods, the Block Party program is free!

At your neighborhood party, you can request recreation staff to lead games; invite a fire engine, Sheriff's unit, or ambulance to stop by; set-up an emergency preparedness demo or energy-savings presentation, or simply carve out time to chat with the neighbors.

by Gail Fretwell-Hugger

In the year 2000, David Nakamura, Nellie's oldest son arranged for the National Japanese Historical Society to initiate a biography project on his mother's life. Nellie at this time was 99 years old. Nellie was 4' 11" and still strong, spry and self-disciplined. Her memory was phenomenal. This little "Roots" column cannot nearly do justice to Nellie's story. Nellie's stories fill a complete good-sized book with marvelous photographs.

Nellie's mother's name was Rui Suzuki (1868-1895). She was from a small village in the Chubu district of Japan. Rui told Nellie about witnessing her father cutting off his topknot - the symbol of his status as a samurai, after social upheaval in Japan changed the cultural structure in the mid-1800's. Rui married, but little is known of her first marriage, other than marriages were usually arranged by the parents through a baishakunin (go-between). She had a son, but for reasons that are unknown, Rui went away to another place - Nellie thought it might have been the town of Osaka and somehow she learned English. She was working as a salesperson for a fabric store when she met an older, wealthy American woman. (Keep in mind, just working and being independent was a huge step for a woman in the 1800's - especially in Japan.)

Nellie writes a chapter in her book entitled, "Around the World with Nellie Hill: 1890's". (Rui's daughter Nellie is named after the American woman, Nellie Hill). Nellie Hill had traveled to Japan from Groton, Mass. She fell in love with Japan and the people. When she met Rui, she asked her to be her traveling companion and that is how Rui came to the United States. Miss Hill sent Rui to a sewing school in Boston for a year. Rui became an excellent seamstress. Miss Hill's prominent family was not happy with the friendship between their daughter and Rui so Miss Hill went back to Japan with Rui and helped her establish a small business in Yokohama. Miss Hill also introduced Rui to Matsuosuke Sumiye, who would become Rui's second husband. In 1899, the couple joined a surge of Japanese immigrants coming to the U.S. They settled in San Francisco and set up a little restaurant, but a gang of Italians came with sticks and baseball bats and broke up the place so that they had nothing left. Rui and Matsunosuke may have been helped by the thriving Japanese missions operated by the Presbyterians and Methodists in S.F. - in any case the couple moved and found work in Merced with a French farmer and Rui learned a lot of recipes including "skinny pancakes" (crepes). She was a great cook.

In 1900, son Harry was born and in 1902, daughter Nellie was born. The Japanese people in the U.S. moved often as they were not allowed to own any property. Life was very hard and often there was only a blanket in a horse stable to sleep on and waiting until the next job came around. Many workers became ill and died because of the harsh conditions and many went back to Japan. Rui and her little family moved to Agnew in San Jose and found a ramshackle house to stay in and her father worked in the fields - Rui would put the baby in a buggy and go too. Often the fields were wet because the farmers watered them frequently to make the berries very plump - the women would have to crawl around on the wet ground. The farms in Santa Clara in the late 1800's and early 1900's had artesian wells - just dig down a little and put in a pipe and up came the water.

Nellie's parents were one of the first married Japanese couples in the town of Agnew. Because Rui spoke English, a hakujin doctor trained her to be a midwife.

When Harry was four and Nellie was two, their father developed kidney problems and died within three weeks. All of a sudden, Rui was a woman alone with two small children and one on the way. It was a terrible, scary time. One of their neighbors offered to adopt the baby and having very little choice - Rui allowed them to do so. Nellie remembered the agony and anxiety of her mother during this time. In desperation, she agreed to marry a man who had just come from Japan. Nellie remembered him as a quiet man who allowed Rui to do the parenting.

Nellie and Harry: 1921

Nellie had a lot of childhood adventures growing up. Once she almost drowned because she fell in water trough and couldn't get out. When Harry was old enough to go to school, Rui took him to Jefferson School, the nearest grammar school. The principal just stared at her and said, "I'm sorry I can't accept your son. We don't enroll Orientals". Rui was furious. She went to the Santa Clara courthouse and told the judge, "I want to enroll my boy in the first grade, but the principal in Agnew says they do not allow Japanese". It was probably the first time this issue had ever been brought up. The judge said, "That's ridiculous! All American citizens are allowed".

Rui often had to go in front of a judge to plead for other Japanese, as they were not liked, but because Rui had been Miss Hill's protégé, she knew that even women could assert their rights.

The family lived and worked in Cupertino from 1912 to 1917 and by now Rui had two more children. Then she became ill for a couple of years. Before she died, she told 17 year old Nellie to get married so she could have her own husband and family. She didn't want Nellie to be an old maid. About a year and a half after her mother died, Nellie met a handsome young Japanese man and they were married in 1921. Nellie and her husband, Harry, (same name as her brother) worked very, very hard to make a living for themselves and their two sons. And then came WWII and the Japanese were sent to internment camps. In the camp, Nellie's 2nd son, Kenny, died of meningitis on September 18, 1943. It was an awful time. They were Christians and had a Christian ser-

Turn Food Scraps into a Garden Treasure!

Food scraps and food-soiled papers are the largest single item in our waste stream, making up approximately 35% of what we throw away. Collect food scraps and paper items in the kitchen pitcher provided by Recology or use another kitchen container to store the scraps before transferring them to your yard waste cart for weekly collection. To guard against odor, bugs, rodents and overall mess in your yard waste cart, please keep your yard waste container lid closed and wrap food scraps in a paper bag, newspaper, paper towel, or a compostable bag, before putting them into the yard waste cart to be "recycled" into compost. Please do not place your food waste in a plastic bag. Plastic will clog up the processing equipment. Composting reduces waste and produces a valuable product that enhances soil. Compost is provided to Cupertino residents through October 19 on Fridays and Saturdays from 8:30 – 11 am at 12100 Stevens Canyon Road. For gardening, mix compost with 50% dirt. Compost is intended as an amendment to the soil; unblended compost is nutrient-rich and may burn plant roots and lawn if applied directly. For more information please contact Environmental Programs at environmental@cupertino.org or 408.777.3354.

Cupertino Will Become a Clean Zone - No Butts About It

Cupertino's parking lots, curbs and creeks have been negatively impacted by litter. To prepare for the new State mandate requiring the City to reduce 100% of its litter by July 1, 2022, and to reduce 40% of the litter by July 1, 2014, anyone caught littering in Cupertino will be cited and fined a minimum of $100 for a first-time litter violation. Locally and nationwide, cigarette butts are the number one littered item. The problem is that litter doesn't stay in one place. When it lands on the ground, if not cleaned up, litter may be carried by wind or rain to storm drain inlets that are designed to divert rain to local creeks to prevent flooding. When litter enters the drainage system it has begun its journey, first to our creeks, then to the bay and on to the ocean. Please do your part. NEVER litter our environment. When safe to do so, pick up litter and properly dispose of it. You might also consider joining an on-land or creek cleanup event.

2014 Garage Sale Date Set

The Citywide Garage Sale will be held on September 20 and 21 this year. Look for sale details in next month's Scene and on our website at www.cupertino.org/garagesale in the coming months.

A Cleaner Cupertino – It's in the Bag!

Thank you for shopping Cupertino with reusable bags! We have successfully reduced the amount of plastic bag litter found in our streets and local creeks since the Reusable Bag Ordinance went into effect on October 1, 2013. The ordinance prohibits single-use carryout plastic bags provided at checkout by all Cupertino grocery stores, convenience stores, hardware stores, pharmacies, as well as local, national, and mobile retailers. For more information, visit www.cupertino.org/reusebags. If you have questions about the Reusable Bag Ordinance, call 408.777.3354 or email environmental@cupertino.org.

What Do You Do with Household Hazardous Waste?

Can't put that old cleaner or paint can in your garbage bin! Instead, contact Waste Management (WM) At-Your-Door service to collect your household hazardous waste. An appointment for collection can be made at www.wmatyourdoor.com or by calling 800.449.7587.

Keep Our Creeks Flowing

Did you know that good water flow is essential for healthy creeks? Creeks are a valuable natural resource that support sensitive wildlife and ecosystems and also serve as natural drainage systems that carry storm water away from homes, roads and businesses safely to the bay. For our waterways to carry runoff during heavy rainfall, it is important to keep creeks free of trash and debris, which can impede the flow of water and cause flooding. While most people realize trash and chemicals should not go into a creek, many don't know that yard waste, leaves and soil also pollute a creek and can obstruct water flow, resulting in flooding and erosion. Please be sure to dispose of these and other materials properly and never dump anything in a creek! Call the City if you have questions on waste disposal at 408.777.3354 or email environmental@cupertino.org.

Congratulations to the Winners of the A Cleaner Cupertino Student Art Contest!

Apanuba,
Monta Vista High School

The City was very impressed with the creativity and thoughtfulness of more than one hundred students that offered their time and talents to produce incredible environmental art for our contest. Cupertino students were invited to create artwork addressing the fate of the waste we produce, changes we can make to reduce it, and connecting waste to issues like water quality. Winning pieces will be used to create reusable shopping bags to encourage our community to reduce waste and reach for their reusable bags when shopping at our local stores.

The Cupertino Chamber of Commerce and the Fine Arts Commission chose six winners, two each from grades K - 4, 5 - 8, and 9 - 12. Entries were considered for how they best represented contest themes and how well the designs would be produced on reusable bags. These unique-to-Cupertino reusable bags will be available for purchase this fall.

Congratulations to our winning artists!

Your message for "A Cleaner Cupertino" will be seen all around town.

Indira Abhyanker, age 9, from Eaton Elementary School

Isha Venkatesh, age 10, from Collins Elementary School

Emilie Yu, age 14, from Monta Vista High School

Thank you to all who participated and shared your ideas on ways keep our community clean. The City is featuring all contest entries on the City's website www.cupertino.org/reusebags.

vice. The little coffin was decorated with paper flowers made by other Christian Japanese in the camp. Nellie was sad and angry and felt that if they hadn't been sent to the camp, maybe Kenny wouldn't have died and she was angry at the country for sending them all away. Finally she became resigned and blamed the circumstances instead of anybody. She wrote poems that remembered Kenny. Harry and Nellie re-built their lives after the war. They knew people like the Duveneks in Los Altos, and Senator Alan Cranston who tried to help the Japanese in the post-war days in California. They traveled and their 3 remaining children - David, Margaret and George all worked with Nellie on her memoirs. Nellie's wonderful book of memories is entitled, "A Century of Change". Rui and Nellie were remarkable women of courage and their stories are truly inspirational.
